REHABILITATION OF DISTURBED LANDS IN CALIFORNIA
A MANUAL FOR DECISION MAKING:
(228 pages)

by
Gail A. Newton and V.P. Claassen

SP 123 represents the compilation of information on vegetation, rehabilitation and restoration that has become available in the last 20 years. This manual focuses on moderately to severely disturbed lands, such as those commonly associated with mining. The information in this manual should also provide planners and practitioners of less disturbed areas with a guide for designing projects in a wide variety of other situations where rehabilitation is needed. Includes 112 page appendix containing information on plant species commonly used in rehabilitation by geographic subregions.
